ATTENTION - MESSAGE FROM THE SCHOOL NURSE - SCHOOL MEDICATION

If you dropped medication off at the clinic at any point this year, please be sure to pick these up by Friday, May 23, 2025. Due to safety reasons, we are unable to send medications home with students. A parent or guardian must pick them up from the front office. If they are not picked up by May 23, 2025, they will be disposed of!

Reminders for next school year:

All Kindergarten students must turn in their Hearing and Vision Form (GA form 3300) along with their Immunization Form (GA form 3231) or affidavit before or at open house on July 23, 2025.

If your child is entering 6th or 7th grade, they will have immunizations due!

Please be sure to talk with their primary care provider over the summer to ensure they are up to date before school starts back in July. We will need updated immunization forms turned in on or before Open House on July 23, 2025.

All rising 6th grade students are required to have a scoliosis screening (GA form 4400) complete. We highly encourage having this done with their primary care provider at the time they are receiving vaccines. We will hold ONE screening here at the school for those who do not have a form on file by the start of the school year.

今学年度、スクール・クリニックにお薬などを預けた方は、2025年5月23日(金)までに必ずオフィスへ受け取りに来てください。安全上の理由から、お薬を児童へ渡すことはできません。必ず、保護者の方がオフィスまで取りに来てください。尚、2025年5月23日(金)までに受け取られなかったお薬などは、処分させていただきます。

来学年度について

全ての新幼稚園児は、2025年7月23日のバック・トゥ・スクール・オープンハウスまでに、聴覚・視覚フォーム (GA Form3300) 及び予防接種記録 (GA Form 3231) またはWaiverを提出してください。

新6年生及び7年生は、新しい予防接種が必要になります! 夏休みの間に、かかりつけの医師にご連絡し、7月に学校が始まる前に必要な予防接種を済ませておいてください。2025年7月23日のオープンハウスまでに、最新の予防接種書類をスクールナースへご提出ください。

新6年生は全員、脊柱側弯症の検査 (GA Form4400) を受ける必要があります。新しい予防接種を受ける際に、かかりつけの医師にこの検査を受ける旨、ご相談ください。新学年度が始まるまでにご提出いただいていない場合は、当校にて検査を一度行いますので、その検査にご参加いただきます。

CHOA & STRONG 4 LIFE

Building Resilience Over Summer Break
Elementary school

Resilient kids are better able to handle life's ups and downs. Summer breaks can bring up lots of feelings. Some kids may feel excited about the break, while others may feel sad to leave school and their friends. However your child is feeling, you can help them take care of their body and mind—and ultimately build resilience—while enjoying summer break.

Keeping consistent routines

Even though summer break may be less structured than the school year, it's important to maintain some routines so that kids know what to expect. Here are some ways to incorporate routines during summer break:

Identifying and expressing feelings

Kids need your help learning how to identify and express their feelings. Make it a routine to regularly ask your child how they're feeling. If it's helpful, use the feelings faces provided. Then, actively listen to what they share. Let your child know you understand and that it's normal and OK for them to feel whatever they're feeling.

Sleep

It's normal for sleep habits to change over the summer, but getting quality sleep is important for kids' bodies and minds all year long. And helping your child keep a consistent bedtime routine during the summer can help make the transition back to school a little smoother. Do your best to maintain sleep and wake times and before-bed routines, such as bathing, brushing teeth, reading books, listening to stories or calming music, coloring, etc.

Nutrition

It's easy for your child's eating habits to change during summer break. Try having quick and healthy snacks on hand, such as fruit, nuts, string cheese and yogurt. It's also important for your child to stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water (instead of sugary drinks). Make drinking water more fun by letting your child pick out a water bottle or use a silly straw.

Screen time

With less structure and more downtime, kids tend to spend more time on screens during summer break. Try setting consistent screen time limits, and encourage your child to get plenty of physical activity, rest, and time to connect with friends and family.

Coping skills

Coping skills are things we can do to help us feel better and manage stress. Use extra downtime during the summer to practice coping skills with your child. Pick one skill to regularly practice together, such as deep breathing.

Deep breathing: This coping skill involves inhaling slowly through the nose and exhaling slowly through the mouth. Deep breathing can help improve our ability to focus and better handle our emotions by lowering our heart rate, allowing our muscles to relax, and calming our mind and body. One technique to help your child practice deep breathing is using balloon breaths.

Think of your belly as a balloon. As you breathe in, let the balloon fill with air, then breathe out and let the balloon deflate.

It's difficult to learn something new when we're anxious, angry or distracted, so try to practice any new coping skills when everyone is calm.

Building Resilience Over Summer Break
Middle school

Resilient kids and teens are better able to handle life's ups and downs. Summer breaks can bring up lots of feelings. Some kids may feel excited about the break, while others may feel disappointed to leave school and their friends. However your child is feeling, you can help them take care of their body and mind—and ultimately build resilience—while enjoying summer break.

Following consistent routines

Even though summer break may be less structured than the school year, it's important to maintain some routines so that kids know what to expect. Here are some ways to incorporate routines during summer break:

Communication

Kids this age often experience many intense emotions, and they're still learning how to express themselves in healthy ways. One way you can help is by creating a daily routine for communication. This can help your child learn that it's OK and normal to feel whatever they feel and share it with others.

- Start the conversation by asking open-ended questions, such as "How are you feeling today?" or "What's been the best part of your day so far?"
- Active listening means giving someone your full attention when they're talking to you. It communicates that you're engaged and listening, and that you care about what they're saying. Make eye contact, put away any distractions and listen to understand.
- Normalize and validate their feelings. Let your child know you understand by repeating back exactly what you hear, without dismissing, minimizing, judging or interpreting. Reassure them that their feelings are normal and OK.

Sleep

It's common for sleep routines to change over the summer with more relaxed schedules, but getting quality sleep is important for the body and mind all year long. And being consistent over the summer can make it easier to transition back to school. Encourage your child to maintain consistent sleep habits, even during busy summer days or when you're away from home.

- Support your child in maintaining consistent sleep and wake times.
- Remind them to power down devices at least an hour before bed, and keep screens out of the bedroom.
- Encourage them to practice calming activities before bed, such as reading, journaling or listening to music.

Coping skills

Coping skills are things we can do to feel better and help us manage stress. Use extra downtime during the summer to practice coping skills with your child, such as deep breathing. This coping skill involves inhaling slowly through the nose and exhaling slowly through the mouth. Deep breathing can improve our ability to focus and better handle our emotions by lowering our heart rate, allowing our muscles to relax, and calming our mind and body.

Square breathing is one way to practice deep breathing. Encourage your child to trace around the square while following the prompts.
